

Announcing ASL Interpreted and Open Captioned performances at The Wang Center!

What is Open Captioning?

Select performances at The Wang Center are going to be open-captioned this season in real time for the benefit of Hard of Hearing and Deaf patrons. One or more LED signboards are located to the side of the stage for optimum visibility. During the performance, a captioner scrolls through a pre-loaded script to be displayed on the signboard(s)), inputting live text when necessary. Captions denote exact literal representations of the text spoken or sung by performers and also indicate anything audible that occurs as part of the performance.
